

Clockwork Solutions Announces Its Newest Partnership with Bertin Technologies of Paris, France

Austin, TX - April 7, 2000

"Bertin is a significant player in several industries in France, especially in defense. Furthermore, they have good connections and a formidable track record in the French Ministry of Defense which is of special interest to us," stated Clockwork CEO, Chaim Forst.

A Bertin spokesperson said, "Clockwork Group's SPAR technology is the best product of its type and helps Bertin expand its capabilities and offerings to our customer base." Bertin already provides several important services to the French defense, chemical, power, and other industries, and is, in fact, active in many other areas of the world including the Middle East and Africa.

Clockwork Group has French-speaking capability which further solidifies the relationship between the two companies. Both companies anticipate significant sales opportunities as a result of this partnership.
