

Clockwork Solutions Established Business Partnership with Analista Modelling Systems (AMS) of South Africa

Austin, TX USA

Clockwork Solutions announced a business partnership with Analista Modelling Systems, a South African based company specializing in computerized simulation modeling. Under the business partnership agreement, Analista will market and incorporate SPAR™, clockwork Solutions' proprietary modeling and simulation technology in their projects and consulting work in Southern Africa.

The partnership between Clockwork Solutions and Analista Modelling Systems has been established partially because of major mutual South African Clients, who will greatly benefit from the partnership's combined offering of products and expertise.

“We were looking for a product and/or service that could compliment our existing simulation work and found a perfect match in Clockwork Solutions' VisualSPAR™, with its Reliability Modeling capabilities”, Said François van Huyssteen, Managing Director of Analista Modelling Systems. “We are now in a position to model our clients businesses both from an operational process and a reliability perspective.”

“The business partnership with Analista Modeling Systems is an important step in the global expansion of SPAR™ technology, enabling the offering of predictive modeling based solutions to owners and operators of major assets in the mining, process, manufacturing, aviation, and transportation in Southern Africa”, said Amos Sela, CEO of Clockwork Solutions. “We are committed to support Analista and its South African customers in utilizing and generating value from our technology and products”.
